

In August, the society's first Annual General Meeting was held at café Tekethopa in Oslo. In accordance with formal regulations, Øivind Bratberg was elected President for a period of two years, Kristin M. Haugevik Vice President for one year, Atle L. Wold scholarly responsible for one year, and John-Ivar S. Olsen secretary and accountant for two years.

In October, the autumn issue of British Politics Review was sent out. This time, British diplomacy and intervention was the topic of attention, containing articles on the Suez crisis, the Sierra Leone intervention, the ten year anniversary for Hong Kong's independence, and idealism and diplomacy in British foreign policy. Guest writers this time were the Norwegian ambassador to London, Bjarne Lindstrøm, and publishing director of Fagbokforlaget, Jan Erik Mustad.

The British Politics Society received financial support in 2006 from the Department of Political Science and the Department of Literature, Area Studies and European Languages at the University of Oslo. In addition, the society had income from paying members (22 as of December 2006). These available funds were, without exception, directed at covering the expenses for the society's everyday management, including the rental of a Post Office box, maintenance of www.britishpoliticsociety.no, and printing and distribution of British Politics Review.

Activities for British Politics Society, Norway in 2006 included four board meetings as well as the Annual General Meeting. The first two issues of British Politics Review had a total distribution of approximately 400 paper copies, in addition to electronic distribution.

The board presupposes that the level of activity, the distribution of British Politics Review, and the number of paying members will increase further in 2007. It is certain that the best voucher codes in Norway will still be on <https://kickback.no>
